The imaginary Harvey causes quite a stir when he is introduced by Eddie Woltz, standing, center, to the remainder of the cast.

Dramatics Department Will Spotlight 'Harvey' in March

Mr. Ralph Fulsom Will Direct College Version Of Mary Chase's Comedy; Eddie Woltz Plays Lead

For the spring production to be given by the dramatics department, Mr. Ralph Fulsom has selected HARVEY, a delightful comedy by Mary Chase. Rehearsals are now underway and the time set for the performance has been announced as March 24-25.

This whimsical drama depicts a day in the life of Elwood P. Dowd and his family and friends. Not the least among these friends is Harvey, an invisible white rabbit, six and one-half feet tall, who accompanies Elwood everywhere. The presence of this creature, a pooka, is quite understandably a matter of great concern to the family of Mr. Dowd. They look upon its sufficient reason for his confinement in an institution where the treatment of such hallucinations is an everyday practice. The role of Elwood has been given to Eddie Woltz, senior elementary education major from St. Joseph.

Opal Carson plays Vita Louise. Playing the role of Vita Louise, Elwood's sister, is Opal Carson, senior English major from Eagleville. Vita Louise is perhaps the most concerned of all with Harvey—for two reasons. His presence in the house scares away all prospective suitors for the hand of her daughter, Myrtle Mae, and—she admits that she has begun to see Harvey herself on occasions. She realizes that this is a dangerous situation which calls for immediate action.

Myrtle Mae, played by Jackie Donaldson, junior fine arts major of Maryville, is unhappy in the existing situation, too. Typically adolescent, she dreads being branded as the niece of a screwball, and resents the fact that she is unable to have any men callers in the evening as that is the time when Elwood and Harvey are most often in the house.

Manages Chumley's Rest

Dr. William Chumley, founder of Chumley's Rest, the institution where the family seeks aid for Elwood, is played by Harley Hackett, junior English major from Dearborn. Dr. Chumley makes Harvey's acquaintance, with hilarious results, when he attempts to lure Elwood away from one of his favorite haunts, Charlie's Place, and take him back to Chumley's Rest.

Dr. Lyman Sanderson, Chumley's ambitious young assistant, adds to the confusion when he commits the wrong patient to the sanitarium. Frank Babb, junior English major from Cameron, has been selected for this role.

Carla Hayzlett has Nurse's Part. Carla Hayzlett, sophomore from Graham, plays the beautiful young nurse at Chumley's Rest. She is

Student Senate Votes To Adopt New Official Ring for College

At a joint meeting with the presidents of the classes, the Student Senate recently voted to adopt a new official school ring.

The ring, designed by the L. G. Balfour Company of Attleboro, Massachusetts, will be of ten-carat gold set with a large synthetic emerald. On the shanks of the ring will be engraved a design of the Administration building. Flanking the stone will be the date of graduation and the type of degree.

Members of Greek letter organizations may have their letters engraved in the stone.

The rings will be offered for sale at the College Book Store in approximately eight weeks; but orders for them can be placed immediately. A triple view sketch of the ring is now on display there.

Rings can be obtained in either men's or women's sizes.

As it is possible to back-date the rings to any since the founding of the College, alumni may obtain these rings. The design as it has been accepted has been contracted for and no changes can be made for ten years.

College Will Be Host to Social Studies Teachers

A meeting of the social studies teachers of northwest Missouri will be held on the College campus, Friday, February 20, in the Lakeview Room of the Union Building.

The program for the sectional meeting will begin with a general assembly and registration at 1:00 p.m. The general plan is to have three discussion groups. These groups are to discuss "Educating for Good Citizenship," "The World History Bugaboo," and "Miscellaneous Problems of the Social Studies Teacher."

The afternoon session will close with a short coffee hour and social hour. That evening the group will meet at Tucker's Cafe for a dinner.

All those who are attending the conference will be guests of the College at the basketball game between the Bearcats and the Cape Girardeau Indians.

Contest Deadline Is March 15

A Victory Song will be chosen! Yes, for all who have been wanting an official pep song for Northwest Missouri State College, now is the chance to enter a contribution to the contest.

March 15 has been set as the deadline for all musical entries. Any student or interested persons may enter either the words or music by the above date to any member of the Student Senate or to either the music or English departments.

These two departments have offered their cooperation in turning out the best contribution as the official song. The English department will write the lyrics to any original sheet music entered, and the music department will write the musical arrangement for the best lyrics entered.

The completed compositions will be performed by the College band at an assembly, and the best song will be chosen by the student body.

If you have either words or music already written or are capable of writing them, be sure to enter the contest. There is a list of Senate members on the main bulletin board for your convenience in submitting an entry for the Victory March of Northwest Missouri State College.

College Enrollment 618

Enrollment at Northwest Missouri State College is 618 for the second semester. It was announced recently. The figure is larger than the 608 enrolled in the spring quarter last year, but is a drop from the 712 attending last semester.

Methods Class Compiles Social Studies Handbook

The Methods Class in Social Studies last semester compiled information into "A Student Teacher's Handbook in Social Studies," as a part of their work for the semester.

Herschel Neil and Mary Ellen Daniels organized the materials and edited the contributions, under the direction of Mr. Gordon Price, supervising teacher in social studies. Materials were submitted by George Kling, Leonard Gercken, Harmon Mothershead, Herschel Neil, Don Palmer, Mary Ellen Daniels, and Nanetta Turner. The handbook was duplicated and will be used by future classes in methods and by student teachers in the department.

The handbook consists of an introduction, educational philosophy, objectives of the social studies, preparation of units, methods of instruction, and student teacher's aids such as: lists of free materials, bibliographies of reference books and fiction books.

College Revises Guide For Directed Teaching

The supervising staff of the Department of Education has been working on an expanded "Orientation Guide for Directed Teaching."

The guide answers many of the questions that students ask before they begin their student teaching experience. It is also useful for student teachers.

Such questions as the following are discussed in the guide: Are you ready to apply for directed teaching? What kinds of experiences do you receive? How are your experiences guided? What facilities are available for your use? How are your experiences evaluated? What schedule patterns are possible?

The guide is being mimeographed for general distribution.

College Prepares For Annual Parents' Day Program In March

Plans are now underway to hold a Parents' Day on the NWMSO campus, Friday, March 20.

Chairman for this event is Dr. Frank Grube. Other members of the committee for Parents' Day are Mr. Kenneth E. Bird, Miss Doris Hysler, Mr. James Johnson, Miss Ruth Miller, Mr. Ryland Milner, and Mr. Irving S. Spigle.

The program will consist mainly of exhibits and demonstrations held during the afternoon and evening. Although the attendance at Parents' Day was very small last year because of bad weather, a full day was planned for the visiting parents.

Newly completed Men's Hall had "open house." Exhibits were held by the science and mathematics department, and demonstrations were given by the home economics and physical education divisions. Tours were conducted to the College Farm and art displays were in the hall cases and in the Library. The parents were invited to a tea in the Library, and the day was concluded with an assembly in the auditorium that evening.

Tower Choir Makes Area Concert Tour

The Tower Choir, under the direction of Mr. Gilbert Whitney, made its annual tour of Northwest Missouri on January 27 and 28. It presented four concerts on the first day, and three on the second.

Towns included in the tour were Liberty, Smithville, Platte City, Gower, Savannah, Plattsburg, and Excelsior Springs. The program was arranged into four parts which were adjusted to fit the time allotment of each town. The fifty members of the choir and Mr. Everett Brown, who accompanied them on the trip, felt that this year's tour was successful.

Religious Themes Are Surveyed by Kappa Delta Pi

"How may the church be given the vitality it lacks in our present society?" was the problem presented to members and pledges of Kappa Delta Pi Monday, February 8, by Reverend Thomas Fuhr, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Atlantic, Iowa.

Additional topics discussed were such as, how may attendance at church be improved? How may the church be restored to a central place in people's lives? How may we combat the prevailing "take it or leave it" attitude toward the church? What would be your reaction to church membership dependent upon the performance of certain obligations such as required regular attendance?

Suggestions for improvement proposed by the group included more challenging ministers, more participation by the congregation, more freedom of opinion, and a realization of the need for religious education.

Charles Vance Presents Unusual Show of Magic

Charles Vance, noted magician, presented a most unusual program of mystery and magic in the auditorium of the College, February 4.

Assisted by Miss Patricia Kelly, Vance succeeded in giving to his audience a program which was a combination of magic, legends, and comedy. His selection of acts ranged from numbers magically appearing on a covered slate, suspension in air of a coed, Jo Magnuson, to the favorite of the audience, the transplating of a torn dollar bill into a lemon.

Vance, whose home is in Chicago, has been a student of the occult and all things mysterious from early childhood. He became the protégé of "The Great Nicola," brilliant magician renowned in Europe and through the Far East as the most eminent wizard in the entire world.

Mr. Vance, who is known as "The Marco Polo of Magic," has traveled in thirty-two countries, investigated and studied all branches of the ancient art as practiced in remote regions of the earth, and brought back to the United States many magic feats which are new to American audiences.

The Students Congratulate

Dr. J. W. Jones, President

On January 9, 1946, Dr. J. W. Jones became the sixth president of Northwest Missouri State College.

In July of last year President Jones began his fifteenth year of service on this campus, as he had served as dean of the faculty for seven years prior to his inauguration as president.

Some of the objectives for students that President Jones set forth in his inaugural address included civic competence, preparation for occupation, and personal development. These and many more objectives have been fulfilled, and still more have been set to achieve in the future.

When Dr. Jones assumed the title of president of Northwest Missouri State College, he knew it would carry responsibilities and problems such as those experienced on the normal college campus. Doubtless, he did not think such a tragedy would occur as the explosion that shattered Residence Hall.

An accident occurred at the College pond December 27, 1952, and he suffered a badly injured leg. But showing the same stamina and courage that he has exhibited throughout his six years as president, President Jones was back in his office on January 26.

The students recognize and congratulate President Jones on the achievements he has made in the progress of the College. They also admire the way he comes out of each difficulty smiling and working as hard as ever.

Coronation Changes

In my opinion many and good are the changes that have been made in the method of selecting a Tower king and queen.

More people are to be allowed to participate in the coronation, thus representing more fairly the many organizations on our campus. There are to be four attendants to the king and queen instead of the traditional two.

The biggest and most democratic change has been made in the method of voting. The entire student body is to be allowed to vote, not only at the primary election, which will be held in the event that more than five girls and five boys are nominated, but at the final election. Before, only those who attended the dance were allowed to vote.

Also, each boy and girl shall have the right to vote for a boy and girl in each election. This new method takes the place of the old policy of girls' voting for their choice for Tower king and boys' for Tower queen.

Another democratic change is the one limiting the funds to be spent for campaigning. This will equalize the chances of those nominated for the honor.

Since I have attended this college, I have heard people complaining each year about the policy of selecting Tower king and queen. I now feel, in view of the changes that have been made, that our college is one in which the will of the majority is taken into consideration.

March Is Harvey's

"Harvey," a comedy which first found fame on the stage and then in motion pictures, will be the major production of the College dramatics department.

Most people are familiar with Elwood P. Dowd and his friend, the invisible six and one-half foot tall white rabbit. To many, Elwood, the rabbit, Elwood's sister, the adolescent Myrtle Mae, and all the other characters, make one of the present day's most delightful comedies.

The students chosen to act in the play are not unknown to the audiences of the College. Many will be remembered from recent productions, "The Hasty Heart," "Noah," and "Antigone."

Rehearsals are now underway and as the dates for the performance, March 24 and 25, come nearer, more hard work and effort will be exerted by the actors. They receive no reward for the time and effort they spend other than the pleasure of giving a little fun to the other students.

For an evening of gay, light-hearted fun, remember that on March 24 and 25 the lights in the auditorium will dim, and Elwood P. Dowd, his invisible rabbit, and his friends, will make their appearance on the College stage.—Thelma Buckley

Back the 'Cats

As the seasons of the year revolve, so do our sports. Basketball will soon end for another term. With it ends all the thrills and chills of exciting games at home and at other colleges.

Frid is our last home game. Soon after that our interest will switch to another sport. Until then, why not keep all our attention centered on the Bearcat cagers. Maybe our team hasn't won as many games as we might like, but the incentive to win has been with the players through the toughest games.

Let's all be in the gym this Friday and make a good showing so that the boys will know how much we have appreciated their spirit throughout the season.—Lois Kemper

Steinbeck's "East of Eden"

Though critics are by no means agreed that EAST OF EDEN is John Steinbeck's best novel, they are just about unanimous in acclaiming it his most ambitious work. Its more than six hundred pages and its scope of years, embracing two generations, would make this judgment seem obvious. However, Steinbeck has attempted more otherwise in his novel than merely greater length: he has tackled the great problem of the nature of sin.

The story of EAST OF EDEN concerns itself with two families that settled in the Salinas Valley in California at the turn of the century. One of these families, that of Samuel Hamilton, a heroic and somewhat improbable Irishman, seems to be John Steinbeck's own people (even to the extent of having his father, who married one of Samuel's daughters, and himself appear in the novel), and serves chiefly as a foil to the other family, that of Adam Trask.

After spending his youth in wandering, Adam Trask had come home to his New England farm to share his inheritance with his brother Charles upon the death of their father. Adam, a mild man, could not understand his brother's black rage that on more than one occasion nearly led to fratricide, but with mainly the two men had come to tolerate one another, with even some show of affection. This new bond was again broken when a strange young woman was found on their farm, badly beaten up. In the face of Charles' resentment, Adam nursed the girl back to health, married her, and took her away with him to settle in the Salinas Valley.

Thus we are brought up to the situation at the beginning of the novel. Now Adam's bride, Cathy, bears him twins. The reader is led to believe that the father of at least one of the twins may well have been Charles. Furthermore, Cathy is portrayed as cold, treacherous, without principles or feelings that we would call human. "I believe there are monsters born in the world to human parents," writes Steinbeck, and evidently would have us agree with him. Well, that is one way to account for evil. At any rate, Cathy deserts her babies almost at once, and when she is heard of again, she is working in a brothel in nearby Salinas.

Adam's twins are boys whom he eventually names, after Biblical characters, Calab and Aaron. Like Charles and Adam, these boys are strangely antagonistic. Especially Calab seems to be imbued with hate. But somewhere along as a result of philosophic discoveries involving Adam, old Samuel, and a Chinese servant of Adam's named Lee, the idea had been intruded into the lives of these people that a man is responsible for his actions. There is some rehearsing here of the old problem of free will—just how much is a man responsible for his actions if God is omnipotent and has foreordained? The fourth chapter of Genesis is the basis for much of this discussion (see pages 301-303). And thus, armed with this new (?) creed, Calab is able to overcome his hate, and incidentally to win the sweet neighbor girl Abra, who had at first turned to the apparently superior brother Aaron.

I have found that the reactions of readers of EAST OF EDEN vary from those of a well-read friend of mine who considers it the best novel he has read to those who think that Steinbeck has slipped out of the fellowship of ranking novelists altogether. Somewhere between must be the true rating. Certainly the undercurrent of allegory interferes with one's judgment. I found myself annoyed by the Cain and Abel allegory, made so obvious by naming the brother pairs with initials C and A. And I could not accept the unalleviated villainy of Cathy. I can not agree that any humans are monsters.

But one must admit that Steinbeck has been bold in dealing with the greatest of evil and free will. Another writer in another day tackled the same problem and produced PARADISE LOST.

Student Christian Association Discusses Various Activities

The members of the Student Christian Association met together Tuesday evening, February 3, at 7 p. m., in the Chapel of the Student Union, for their regular biweekly meeting. The meeting was called to order by President Jeanie Mulvania, and Secretary Mae Lewis read the minutes of the last meeting. Jeanie Mulvania announced that she would be leaving and turned her duties over to various people.

Elvina Schlotterbeck, the vice-president of S. C. A., will have charge of the business meetings. For the rest of the duties Jeanie Mulvania appointed program and enlistment committees. Those serving on the program committee are Irene Bressler, Dorothy Higley, George Noble, and Margaret Murray as chairman. Carolea Pritchard will be chairman of the enlistment committee and those serving with her are Helen Adams, Herbert Anderson, and Bobby Darby.

All members were urged to give their fullest support to Religious Emphasis Week. It was announced that Miss Ruth Hughes would be the speaker at the special meeting called for Tuesday, February 10.

The entire program was built upon what S. C. A. is and the work it does. Dixie Smith gave a report on S. C. A. on the national and international scope. The report on the S. C. A. summer retreat at Estes, Colorado, was given by Jeanie Mulvania. Mae Lewis reported on the other summer activities available to S. C. A.

Elvina Schlotterbeck told of the leaders in S. C. A., the magazines available, the meaning of the S. C. A. symbol, the triangle, and explained what cell groups are. The program ended with the singing of the S. C. A. song, "Let The Beauty of Jesus Be Seen In Me." A short social period followed with the playing of games.

Campus Extra

Here's the latest on what is big news across the campuses of neighboring colleges.

The women are having a field day at Cape Girardeau. They're going to pick up dates for the "Reverse Romp" and crown a "Campus King" at the dance. There should be a fair sized choice as ninety-nine men accepted bids to societies and fraternities.

Latest from the Kirksville paper, "The Teachers College Index," is the new college ring which will go on sale this spring. Many of NEM SC responded to the bloodmobile unit on their campus.

A mobile unit also was in Maryville, but did you know it? (As if anyone had any blood to spare after exam week!)

The gals at Warrensburg report difficulties in getting the male population to date for all-school activities. Lucky there are no similar problems existing on this campus, aren't we???

Big news from Missouri Valley at Marshall is the new NCAA football rules on the 2-plateau system. Coach Ashford says "any team which has the horses will be able to go to the races." Too bad the Bearcats can't give them a race!

Plans are being drawn up for a new women's dormitory at Ball State, Muncie, Indiana.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Leon F. Miller attended meetings of the AACTE and Association for Student Teaching in Chicago, Illinois, on February 12, 13, 14.

Miss Neva Ross and Miss Ann Gorsuch, supervising teachers, also attended AST meetings on February 13-14 in Chicago.

Miss Olive S. DeLuce, Mrs. Esther Knitfle, Mrs. Emily Martin, and Mrs. Carolyn Wiseman attended the sectional meeting of the Fine Arts Department of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association in Cameron, Friday, January 23.

Mr. James Hill, art director at Cameron and graduate of the College, acted as host for the group.

John Smay attended the Midwest National Band Clinic at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago. An estimated group of some 3000 Band Directors from all over the country heard the many fine bands which played new band literature, and listened to nationally known clinicians discuss their special phases of instrumental music.

Mr. Andrew McCrae, local high school band director, and Mr. Ralph Yehle of the Music Shop accompanied Mr. Smay.

Dean William Brandenburg, Registrar Robert Foster, and Everett Brown, director of Field Service, attended meetings of their different departments in Jefferson City on January 5.

Dr. Leon F. Miller, chairman of the education department, led a panel discussion on "Value of Cooperation in Education" January 8 at the Parent Teachers Association meeting in Albany.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Strong spent a part of the Christmas season traveling through Georgia and Alabama. They visited in Black Mountain, North Carolina, with relatives, and in Blackburg, Virginia, with Dr. and Mrs. Frank Horsfall, a former member of the College faculty.

College Band Begins Playing Concert Music

The college band has put away hats and march books and has settled down to steady practice. Concert band has begun.

Mr. John Smay, director, has great hopes for this year's band. Members are working hard toward this year's tour. Mr. Everett Brown is arranging for it.

The band is playing some tunes written by various members of the music department. If there is any one who is not connected with the music department who has written a tune that he would like presented, he should see Mr. Smay on the fourth floor. To be presented properly, the tune should be arranged for band or choir; there are people in the music department who will help with it.

The Stroller

The springtime cometh; but the Stroller wanders when. Latently there has been one cold to every three warm ones. And no one has blamed it on the Republicans!

Anyone seen the new regular caller at Residence Hall,—short, dark, and mangy? Yeah! It's a dog, named "Tripod."

Dei Balsover started the semester with a worried look. The reason? Noon hall duty at Horace Mann.

Lots of new faces in student teaching this semester. But it happens all the time.

Why doesn't some body start teaching the Bunny Hop? It might add some pep to the school dances.

Thelma Buckley seems to have acquired a new nickname, TNT. What does it all mean, Thelma? Especially that last "T."

Pat Peterson and Joyce Osburn certainly were enjoying the task of interviewing Paul Vance, the magician, after the assembly program. But of course, they weren't able to pick up any of his trade secrets.

Anyone seen carrying a volume of Shakespeare and wearing blue and gold ribbons is easily identified as an Alpha Psi Omega pledge. Which reminds me,—Helen Twaddle has been trying to find out the qualifications for joining Alpha Phi Omega. Is that what she wants, or does she merely have her signals mixed?

Willy Williamson gets along smoothly at Residence Hall. Is Maelee Hatten going to have competition?

We hear the W.F.C. will make sweetpeas at the next Thursday meeting. The dances do get dull, don't they, girls?

Some of the dorm girls were a little envious of the town girls the night of the Sock Hop. It must be nice to have a car and stay out until— On the subject of the Sock Hop, the atmosphere was "ooh la la" different! Who didn't have calloused dogs the next morning?

It has been noticed that activities other than the usual have taken place in the music practice room.

This is the home stretch for a number of students and they're impatiently counting the days until May 29. And next September they'll wish they were back at NWMSC with only the Stroller to worry them.

Dennis Sheil Completes Naval Officer Training

Dennis O. Sheil of Maloy, Iowa, received an ensign's commission in the United States Navy, December 23, at the Navy's Officer Candidate School, in Newport, Rhode Island.

Ensign Sheil was a member of the eighth and largest class since the school opened in June, 1951. In the four months' training period, the 771 members of this class completed the same naval courses that college NROTC students do in four years. Foremost in their training was the study of gunnery, navigation, seamanship, engineering, damage control, and operations.

Dennis was graduated from Northwest Missouri State College in 1952 with a degree in chemistry and agriculture.

Why Don't They?

Once again we come upon problems existing on this campus. Prominent now is the question of why so many students go home on weekends and how we could keep them on campus.

MARY BAUMAN says: In my opinion there are two main reasons. One is that there aren't enough things of interest or of importance to them to stay over for. The other is that their homes aren't far from the College, and it is easy for them to get home. Perhaps we could keep them on campus over weekends by offering more social activities and a wider recreational program that would be of interest, also by showing them the values of staying on campus.

WILLY WILLIAMSON says: I think most of the kids leave because of steadies back home. The ones who stay usually can't go home or have jobs. More social functions on weekends would probably keep more people here.

...MUTIE ADAMS says: They won't stay simply because there is nothing here to keep them! We can keep them here by making them feel wanted on campus and by having social functions which are better planned and include more people.

Tau Special

By BOB KARIGER

Speaking about smokers, the Taus feel that the one they held February 3, was the best seen for quite some time. George Haws commented that it was the best he had ever seen and believe us that goes back quite a number of years.

We have been informed that "Drop Dead" Plummer is thinking seriously of changing his name to "Hot Rod," since he has now acquired a new automobile in which to race.

Dean Lundy and Stan Ogden attended the Sigma Tau Gamma's National Conclave held at Indianapolis, Indiana. Their reports revealed that the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity is expanding very rapidly and seems to be very prosperous.

The Taus have been holding secret practice sessions and scrimmages in the lobby of Quad 1, pending the forthcoming annual basketball game between the Sig Taus and the Phi Sigs. Last year this contest proved to be extremely hilarious and this time it should be the event of the year!

It is interesting to note that the five starters on the varsity basketball team consist of four Tau natives and a pledge. They are John Garner, Morris Ingram, Dickie Dean Buckridge, George Coulter, and pledge Bill Baldwin. Very good representation we would say.

A white rose and a song to brother Frank Babb for giving his pin to Pat McClaren. All of Frank's brothers want to wish him the best of luck and their heartiest congratulations. We were happy to see some gals coming over to the Tau house to see various brothers, even if it was the Alpha's "Hell Nite" and they were only after various autographed articles.

Former Tau and great athlete of this college, Glenn Sherry, is very ill in Fort Riley, Kansas. We know that he would appreciate a line or even a card from some of you. His address is, Glenn Sherry, Base Hospital, Fort Riley, Kansas.

Buckridge Hits in Scrimmage Session

Kirksville Edges Bearcats, 48-47 With Late Flurry

A pair of fourth quarter field goals by Kirksville's Don Maxey spilled the Maryville Bearcats, 48-47, at Maryville, February 7, in an MIAA conference tilt.

Pulling away from a 13-all score at the end of the first quarter, the Bearcats charged to a 29-25 halftime edge behind the scoring efforts of Dick Buckridge and Larry Belt. In the third stanza the 'Cats stretched their lead to ten points, 38-28, before Glen Cafer fixed a Bulldog rally that cut the Green and White's edge to 42-37 at the end of the period.

With slightly under three minutes to go in the game, the Bearcat edge had been cut to 47-44. This set the stage for Maxey's two fielders. With less than two minutes remaining in the contest, the score was declared a 47-47 deadlock; but a recheck of the books after the game had ended disclosed that the visiting Bulldogs had a 48-47 edge and another conference win.

Conference action for the Bearcats began on January 6 with the Green and White visiting the Kirksville five.

Kirksville 81—Maryville 69. With Willard Sims notching 21 counters and teammate Beck adding 18 more, the Kirksville Bulldogs dropped the invading Bearcats, 81-69, in the MIAA conference opener for both schools, January 6.

Dick Buckridge topped all scorers for the night as he collected 23 points to lead the Bearcats' unsuccessful charge.

The contest was never much in doubt as the host five started strong and rushed to a 41-30 halftime edge. From then on out the game was definitely in the hands of the Bulldogs.

Springfield 64—Maryville 54. The visiting Springfield Bears stretched a slim 27-22 halftime margin to a ten-point edge to bump the Maryville Bearcats 64-54, January 10.

Speedy Dick Buckridge totaled 18 tallies to lead the Bearcat aggregation, two more than teammate John Garner collected. The Bears uncovered a triple attack as Don Anleak, Jerry Anderson, and Bill Thomas each chalked up 13 points for the victorious quintet.

Bearcat Cagers End Season With Indians Friday

Green and White Face Tough foe In Final Contest

By DONNA LAWSON

Cape Girardeau will furnish the competition for the local Bearcats in their last game of the 1952-53 roundball season. This game will be held on the Maryville court, Feb. 20.

Cape, who handed an over-confident Springfield team an upset, also received the same treatment at the hands of Warrensburg. One reason for this could be that Cape's Coach Pink was not with his team at the Warrensburg game.

Although the Cats are out of the running for the MIAA crown, Cape has a fairly good chance of coming up with at least a tie for second place. As this goes to press, Springfield is leading the league with a 6-1 record. Cape Girardeau and Kirksville are tied for second place with 5-2 records.

Coach Pink's first five is composed of four veteran players and one newcomer. Hanson, center, is a consistent scorer, and has been a threat to opposing teams all season. Although this is Coach Pink's first year at Cape, he has done a good job shaping up his team.

This game will be the last college cage game for three seniors: Dick Buckridge, George Coulter, and Larry Belt.

Rolla Miners Trip Green and White In 75-73 Thriller

The Rolla Miners came up with a thrilling two-point victory over the Maryville Bearcats, 75-73, in an MIAA conference contest at Rolla, Saturday night.

Dick Buckridge, Bearcat scoring leader, saw only limited action in the game due to a recent bout with the flu bug. "Buck" was hampered in both contests on the Southern swing by illness.

The tilt, the next to the last on the Bearcats' conference card, gave them a league record of two wins against seven losses, and an overall season mark of 5 and 13. In the previous encounter with the Miners at Maryville, the 'Cats emerged with a hard-fought 66-57 decision.

College Will Be Host In High School Event

Northwest Missouri State College gymnasium will be the site of the Missouri sub-regional tournament, starting February 23.

The tournament, the first in the state series of playoffs, will be staged to provide a regional qualifier. Skidmore, South Nodaway, and Quitman are seeded one, two, and three in the tourney field.

'Cats Down Warrensburg, 49-44, To Gain Second Conference Win

Outscored 16 to 13 from the field, the Bearcats converted 23 charity tosses to edge by the Warrensburg Mules, 49-44, on the Maryville court, February 2.

The contest was close from the outset, with the Bearcats leading by five at the end of the first stanza and the score knotted at the half time. At the end of the third period the Green and White had forged back into the lead with a slim 39-35 margin. In the final frame they outscored the visitors 10 to 9 to rack up the victory, their second in league competition.

Dick Buckridge paced the winners with 15 tallies and teammates George Coulter and Maurice Ingram added 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Pivot Dick Schromm led the Mules' attack with 13 points and Mahaffie contributed 10 more.

Added interest in the intramural program has really progressed and has swept the campus like a raging fire. Lois Marley even signed up for the intramural program on registration day.

Intramural group leaders take note: Volley ball entries will be due in the near future and a sizzling tournament is in prospect.

Congrats to Duane Richardson for going to St. Joseph to enter the Golden Gloves competition.

Congratulations are also in order to Bob "Moose" Dillon and his wife on their newly born son. It seems that both Bob Dillon and Carl Leffingwell, also a "papa" of a fine son, are planning on supplying the college with two fine tackles in the future.

We were very happy to see the "Pep" band stay for the entire basketball game. The music seems to help keep everyone's spirit up to its highest ebb. Although the Bearcats lost the contest, we were very proud of the showing that they made.

Dick Buckridge broke his single scoring record in the Kirksville game and he has four more contests to participate in.

The interest in track this year is surprisingly pleasing and Coach Milner seems to be quite pleased with several of his freshmen prospects. Keep training for that 4:40 yard dash, Spence.

No doubt if bridge playing were entered as an intramural activity, the participation would be great, terrific, colossal, and co-recreational. The football lettermen surely wish they could get their paws on their new jackets, but "C'est la vie," pronounced "Say la v."

Basketball will be at its greatest when the Phi Sigs and Sig Taus tangle in their annual "Basketball" contest. It should be quite a comical game with a twist that the Globetrotters themselves have never witnessed or done.

The greatest co-recreational sport of all which always causes a few pre-season colds is rounding the last turn for homestretch. Yes, blanket parties are a lot of fun, eh what? Watch your daily newspapers for the weather forecasts!

With the rest of the squad coming along, watch the Bearcats in '54... Intramural basketball is fast approaching the windup stage... lots of good, hard-fought battles... who'll rate the top spot in each league?... might be close...

Next month, varsity and intramural interests shift to spring sports... track, golf, softball, horse shoes...

Still looking ahead... Darrell Walker, former Stanberry athlete, has enrolled for the second semester... Next year should bring in some more freshmen prospects...

Failed to see fishing listed on the sheet of intramural activities... but then, who could be around to check the size and weight of those that got away?...

Back to the cage sport... anyone fail to notice the predominant number of underclassmen on the official roster?...

And coming up soon will be the conference sportsmanship award. With the two-platoon system out in football for next season, what'll happen to the cage sport... No doubt, it will be another change in the foul-shot set-up.

Intramural Club Leaders Hear the Official Ratings
